Vietnam F1 Grand Prix the chance for tourism?

Formula One also Formula 1 or F1 and officially the FIA Formula One World Championship is the highest class of single-seat auto racing.

"This becoming a real highlight of the F1 calendar."

Formula 1 and the City of Hanoi announced that a Grand Prix will be held in the Vietnamese capital from April 2020.

As the first new race to be announced under Liberty Media's ownership, the Vietnamese Grand Prix represents Formula 1's firm commitment to the Asia region where races are already well established in Singapore, China and Japan.

Working in close collaboration with the City of Hanoi authorities, the Promoter and Formula 1 Motorsport department, the 5.565km track will deliver an exciting racing experience for the drivers as well as the fans.

Chase Carey, Chairman and Chief Executive, Formula 1 said:

"We are delighted to announce that Hanoi will host a Formula 1 Grand Prix. Since we became involved in this sport in 2017, we have talked about developing new destination cities to broaden the appeal of Formula 1 and the Vietnamese Grand Prix is a realisation of that ambition. We are thrilled to be here in Hanoi, one of the most exciting cities in the world right now with such a rich history and an incredible future ahead of it. This is the perfect formula for Grand Prix racing and I look forward to this becoming a real highlight of the F1 calendar.

In other efforts to boost tourism, Vietnam now allows for online visa applications and waives visas entirely for some countries. The government created a tourism development fund to assist travel companies with marketing and staff training while investing in roads, bridges and airport expansions.

VIETNAM IS BECOMING A POTENTIAL

LUXURY WEDDING

BILLIONAIRE'S WEDDING

Lasting from 3 to 10 March 2019 at JW Marriott Phu Quoc Emerald Bay, a five-star resort located in Phu Quoc Kem Beach, the wedding of Indian billionaire couple Kaabia Grewal and Rushang Shah made the domestics and international media stir.

Two charters carrying nearly 700 guests landed in Phu Quoc. More than 125 artists from 10 countries were invited to perform at the wedding. Fifty chefs and foods are brought directly from India to serve the party chain with more than 10 events in many days. Even the tablecloth was made exclusively for this wedding. The wedding party space at the beach of Indian billionaire couple in Phu Quoc is decorated like a paradise.

Not until the Indian billionaire couple chose JW Marriott Phu Quoc Emerald Bay as the place to organize "the most anticipated wedding of 2019", Vietnam will be named on the world's luxury tourist map. Previously, many politicians, billionaires and rich internationals considered S-shaped country a "mysterious oasis" for themselves. Great potential for Vietnam's tourism is opening up, from this group of wealthy guests.

HA GIANG

Breathtaking view away from the city, a home of diversified ethnic minority groups

Ha Giang is Vietnam's northern-most province. The mysterious landscape along the Chinese border - a mythical combination of conical limestone peaks and deep, craterous valleys - is probably the most striking in the country. Once considered the last frontier for adventurous travel in Vietnam, Ha Giang gained an almost legendary status among independent travellers.

A JOURNEY OF HAPPINESS

Ha Giang still retains its pristine scenery with spectacular geography and a diverse culture of many ethnic minorities. Here lie the most beautiful terraced rice fields, opening up as you traverse the mountainous roads. On the way to exploring Ha Giang you will be allured by unique cultures and lifestyles of ethnic people such as White H'Mong, Lo Lo, Dao and Tay.

Ha Giang presents us a lot of fantastic mountainous scenery, with breathtaking hills and valleys, and the most beautiful place that should be on your list is the Dong Van Karst Global Geopark, representing 400 million years of geographic transformations – rivaling the Trang An Complex of Ninh Binh.

On the way entering Dong Van Karst Global Geopark, you should visit the breathtakingly beautiful footage in “Pao’s Story” movie, the famous house of H'Mong people was once well-known, now becomes the most interesting destination in Lung Cam village, Sung La. Continues to the journey, Vuong Palace is an attraction that you should not miss. The palace that is built from stone, fir wood and terracotta tiling in a combined

Chinese, French and H'mong traditional architectural style. The palace was used as a residence and fortress during the Vuong Dynasty, a proud symbol of H'Mong people.

As you start to finish conquering Dong Van plateau, one of the exciting destinations is the Lung Cu peak - a north pole of Vietnam, overlooking the border to China, and visit Lolo Chai Village nearby the foot of Lung Cu peak.

The spotlight of the journey is Ma Pi Leng Pass. Ma Pi Leng, in H'mong's language means "Horse nose bridge" which describes nothing else than the dangerous, breath-taking feeling of the travelers when passing by this pass. But perhaps only on this pass can the travelers feel the greatness of Mother Nature, due both to the deep canyon of the Nho Que river underneath and the surrounding high mountains.

You can hop on either a coach, a sleeper bus, or a motorbike to get to Ha Giang from Hanoi. You should plan on an adventure to Ha Giang by advance and try to spend at least three days there to actually discover Ha Giang to the fullest.

Note: There aren't many travel options to choose from, and while most of them are easy enough, there is one thing to take care of if you want to fully explore the beauty of Ha Giang – getting a local travel permit to visit preserved remote villages, which are usually the farthest and the most beautiful destinations such as Meo Vac, Dong Van, and Lung Cu etc..

A Special Gift from Hanoi

Hanoi, the thousand-year-old cultural capital of Vietnam, is the center of culture and politics of the country with preferential natural landscapes as well as the historical monuments, the intangible cultural heritage, such as One Pillar Pagoda, Sword Lake, or Ngoc Son Temple. Hanoi also makes tourists unforgettable because of the sophistication in the cuisine of Trang An people.

About Hanoi special food, there are two famous types: West Lake Lotus Tea and Vong village's Green Rice that elevate the food to art by elaborating processing and enjoyment. West Lake Lotus Tea is marinated by hand in lotus to bring essence and sweet fragrance of lotus, bringing the quintessence in the tea leaves that any tea flavors cannot compare.

Lotus tea

THE QUINTESSENCE
OF HANOI

Lotus is chosen at early stage of blooming with big shape and light pink color flower, which is sponge, light because this is the most fragrant type. In order to have a kilogram of aromatic tea (premium tea), there should have 1000 - 1200 lotus flowers, which must be the right kind of lotus in Dong Tri, Thuy Su lake in Quang Ba village, West Lake because the lotus here is bigger and more fragrant than other places. Lotus must be picked before dawn to marinate with tea leaves. The process of marinating tea takes a lot of time and need high attention.

Lotus tea must be enjoyed with a small set of cups, effused with a clear yellow green color. This elegant drink is not for busy people. Taking a small sip, enjoy the light, pure scent of the lotus flower, which is mixed in shallow, sweet tea, on a fresh and quiet morning.

Usually a lotus tea bud is brewed with a teapot for four persons to drink. If there are few guests or poisonous moisture, mix half of tea. To use tea tray for a long time, the user should put it in the freezer of the refrigerator.
